JobNow

JobNow is a website with a variety of career resources. This includes resume help, interview tips, career assessments, and more.

The Skill Surfer section has various training courses on developing useful skills. These include basic math, GRE test prep, and all levels of computer skill development. Live help is also available.

JobNow can be accessed from the Palm Harbor Library's computers or anywhere with your Palm Harbor library card.

You can access this resource on the Palm Harbor Business Center's page through the QR on the back of this brochure.

SBDC Consulting with Kurt Forster

The library offers appointments with Kurt Forster for one-on-one small business consultation sessions. Kurt is from the Pinellas County Economic Development and the Small Business Development Center (SBDC).

He will be available for one-hour meetings on the second Wednesday of every month.

Book appointments by visiting the events calendar on the Palm Harbor Library's website or visit our reference desk.

SCORE Seminars

The library also offers monthly workshops from Pinellas County SCORE, a non-profit organization that offers mentoring and advice to people interested in starting and maintaining small businesses.

These workshops will cover a variety of business-related topics, such as working from home, startups, retirement planning, and more.

To see what workshops are coming up, visit the events calendar on the Palm Harbor Library's website or see our reference desk.
