Director's Column: The Life of a Book Ful-PHL-ed

How many lifetimes can a book truly live? We are blessed at Palm Harbor Library (PHL) that many in our area rehabilitate their books by donating them here. Some of those books find their way onto our shelves for your neighbors (of all ages) to borrow for years to come. Other books (and CDs, DVDs, greeting cards, magazines, puzzles and games) are adopted by the Palm Harbor Friends of the Library and sold in our beautiful, beloved bookstore – open six days per week. It is the perfect place for gift-shopping and to grab a cup of hot cocoa. ☐ All purchases made will go directly to support library programs and activities sponsored by the Friends. Some of those books, alas, may not sell. Among our many partnerships is Goodwill, who receive those unsold titles for yet another life to live. So... that one box of books you donated may go to underprivileged children or may be sold to support their other services such as housing and employment.
